

Why Alibaba Stock Rose 4% Today

An updated U.S. list of companies with ties to China's military reportedly doesn't include the e-commerce giant.

Howard Smith (TMFBuilt2Last)
Jan 8, 2021 at 3:52PM
Author Bio

What happened

Chinese e-commerce leader Alibaba (NYSE:BABA) has had an eventful few months since its billionaire founder Jack Ma made a speech in October that the Chinese government didn't appreciate.

The stock has slid 20% since then, but it reversed that trend today with a gain of more than 4% as of 3:30 p.m. EST.

IMAGE SOURCE: GETTY IMAGES.

So what

On top of the domestic troubles the company founder is having, the U.S. government has indicated it may require the delisting of some Chinese companies with ties to China's military and security services. Alibaba and internet giant Tencent Holdings (OTC:TCEHY) have since been on investors' radar as potentially being included in that ban. But the latest list of companies tied to China's military doesn't include the two companies, according to a StreetInsider report citing Bloomberg.

Now what

Many of China's technology companies have been in the bull's-eye of the outgoing U.S. administration in its battle with Chinese leaders. But every equity investment contains risk, the reasons for which will vary. International investments have some unique risks of their own.

Those risks should be part of any decision when buying or selling. In an interview today on CNBC, renowned investor Bill Miller said he thought the recent dip in Alibaba is a buying opportunity. While this type of macro news will move shares, long-term investors should focus on the business itself, and be sure to size any investment accordingly with the inherent risks.

Should you invest $1,000 in Alibaba Group Holding Limited right now?

Before you consider Alibaba Group Holding Limited, you'll want to hear this.

Investing legends and Motley Fool Co-founders David and Tom Gardner just revealed what they believe are the 10 best stocks for investors to buy right now... and Alibaba Group Holding Limited wasn't one of them.

The online investing service they've run for nearly two decades, Motley Fool Stock Advisor, has beaten the stock market by over 4X.* And right now, they think there are 10 stocks that are better buys.

See the 10 stocks

Stock Advisor returns as of November 20, 2020*

Howard Smith has no position in any of the stocks mentioned. The Motley Fool owns shares of and recommends Alibaba Group Holding Ltd. and Tencent Holdings. The Motley Fool has a disclosure policy.

5 Stocks Under $49

We hear it over and over from investors, "I wish I had bought Amazon or Netflix when they were first recommended by the Motley Fool. I'd be sitting on a gold mine!" And it's true.

And while Amazon and Netflix have had a good run, we think these 5 other stocks are screaming buys. And you can buy them now for less than $49 a share!

You can grab a copy of "5 Growth Stocks Under $49" for FREE for a limited time only.

Click here to learn more.

Learn more

HSBC's Personal Instalment Loan

Monthly flat rate as low as 0.09%*

Document submission offer of HK$100 rebate

HSBC APPLY NOW

* APR 2.02%.
Terms and conditions apply.
Issued by The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation Limited

Motley Fool Returns

STOCK ADVISOR	S&P 500
574% ▲	117% ▲

Stock Advisor launched in February of 2002. Returns as of 01/09/2021.

Join Stock Advisor

Cumulative Growth of a $10,000 Investment in Stock Advisor

Calculated by Time-Weighted Return

STOCKS

Alibaba Group ...
NYSE:BABA
$236.19 $9.29 (4.09%)

Tencent Holdi...
OTC:TCEHY
$76.94 $4.09 (5.61%)

RELATED ARTICLES

- Beyond Jack Ma: 3 Chinese E-Commerce Stocks You Should Know
- How Risky Is Jack Ma's Alibaba Today?
- The U.S. May Include Alibaba, Tencent in China Stock Ban
- Alibaba Abandoning Music Streaming Service
- Why Alibaba Stock Popped Today

HSBC's Personal Instalment Loan

Monthly flat rate as low as 0.09%*

Document submission offer of HK$100 rebate

HSBC APPLY NOW

* APR 2.02%.
Terms and conditions apply.
Issued by The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation Limited

© 1995 - 2021 The Motley Fool. All rights reserved.